The desire to contribute to social progress and develop a sound understanding of social policy and governance is behind Brett Kristina Stevenson, P.Eng.'s pursuit of a Master of Public Administration in Public and Nonprofit Management and Policy degree with an international specialization at the Wagner School of Public Service at New York University.

Brett has a deep passion for understanding how economic, social and physical forces interact, and dreaming up new ways of doing things. Her extensive international experience, including working for Engineers Without Borders in Malawi, taught her that her engineering training gave her a disciplined approach to problem-solving that will add unique value to the social sector. She asserts that there is still much work to be done to improve economic and social conditions in developing nations, which need more than analytical and technical responses.
